Since I was a child, I've had a vivid interest in the IT and web world. During the past years, I got to deeply know this medium and I developed a graphic taste, which allowed me to create impactful interactive experiences.

Over time, I became a more and more demanding user and this has taught me, when I am on the creative side of the fence, to pay attention to even the smallest details in all my works. I write neat and tidy code and I comply with the web standards. When conceiving and designing web and mobile interfaces, I constantly bear in mind usability and user experience. On the grounds of my strong passion, I'm always open to expand my skills as well as to get new ones.

Work experience

3D Hubs

October 2014 - to date

as a front-end developer and designer in Amsterdam, Netherlands

Last October I had the opportunity to join the team of a thriving dutch startup. 3D Hubs is the world largest e fastest growing network of local 3D printers, providing over one Billion people with access to 3D printing within 10 miles of their home.

UI designer

July 2014

as a freelance for Lingopal - Perth, Australia

I had the chance to work on the redesign of the 5M downloads iOS app Lingopal. My assignment was to refresh the user interface, preserving the brand look.

Frontend designer and developer

October - November 2013

as a freelance for Letisan SRL - Milan, Italy

During my work experience with Letisan I had the opportunity to work on the frontend of the user dashboard of MyProfy website. I worked hand in hand with the backend developer.

UI designer

November - December 2013

as a freelance for WhiskIT Mobile - Perth, Australia

I worked with an Australian development studio, for the creation of the iOS ColourColor game user interface. Working and communicating in English for over a month allowed me to practise and improve my level of language knowledge.

Professional skills
